20 YEARS OF Country Fare AND COUNTING

Twenty years ago, we started Country Fare armed with a passion for food and a determination to build a foodservice company to be proud of. Over the last two decades, we have seen huge growth, with the privilege of becoming one of the major foodservice suppliers for the south of England.

We are an independent, family run fresh produce supplier based in Bournemouth – one of only a handful in Dorset and Hampshire. We may be small but we demand good prices in the markets and we care about every single one of our customers, providing the best possible service 24/7.

FRESH THINKING

Our aim is to be both the supplier of choice and employer of choice. Our mission is to be a passionate team of fresh thinkers delivering quality products through excellent customer service. We do this through our five core values:

- We are passionate about food
- We go above and beyond
- We are honest and transparent
- We have a can-do attitude
- We value each other

2004

The Country Fare adventure came from humble beginnings. Our original base was a small 2,550 sq ft warehouse in West Howe, Bournemouth. Gavin ran the fresh produce side of the business and Debbie looked after the online florist.

Our motto is 'fresh thinking'. With this in mind, we supply the freshest produce and finest foods from our local area and around the globe. We are a company that strives to think outside the box and we love challenges that provide us with an opportunity to innovate and change. We see this as a chance to make us better! You could say fresh thinking is at our core.

Provenance is important to us and that's why our products are sourced and grown locally, where possible, with a great deal of care and attention. We work closely with the people behind the amazing products we offer and with our suppliers to make sure our customers only get the best.

After a few years, we decided to close the florist and concentrate on supplying wholesale fresh produce into hospitality and catering. Our team had grown to 35 people with 8 vans.

POSITIVE IMPACT

In everything we do we always have ethics at the front of our minds. We endeavour to have a positive impact on our local, and wider, community and the environment. That's why we built our new depot (see page 10 for more on that), help the homeless by providing food to charities and support a scheme that helps vulnerable families. Our reach extends beyond the UK too.

2015

We joined the Landmark Wholesale buying group, expanding our offer to 2,000 SKUs across all categories.

2012

We rebranded as Country Fare Foodservice and increased our range to include frozen, ambient and dairy categories.

2009

A couple of years later and we were already outgrowing our warehouse. We purchased Sunburst House and relocated into the 11,000 sq ft depot. We never imagined we would fill it!

2016

We launched our Core Value and Fresh Thinking concepts, establishing a strong reputation for excellent service and quality.

2017

Eight years after moving in, we were already outgrowing Sunburst House. We added a 5,200 sq ft unit to our portfolio to support our growing frozen and ambient offer.

2019

Landmark merged with Today's to create Unitas Wholesale. Country Fare Foodservice remained loyal to the group and thrived.

2020

To increase our frozen capacity, we took on an additional 8,200 sq ft warehouse and grew our range to 4,000 SKUs. Our team had grown to 90 people.

2022

We emerged from the Covid years stronger, bigger and ready to take on more business. Our team had grown to 110 with 28 vans.

2024

Country Fare Foodservice built its own distribution centre offering 70,000 sq ft of storage and office space. Magna House will allow us to grow and develop our vision to be the employer of choice and the supplier of choice.

Eco-friendly BUILD

GREEN AIMS

Our other sustainability and efficiency measures include:

- liaising with our suppliers and growers to ensure their practices comply with our aims
- recycling of packaging materials
- keeping produce wastage to a minimum
- maintaining our vehicle fleet and training drivers well, paying particular attention to fuel economy/optimising delivery routes
- one-way systems for goods to go in and out
- encouraging our customers to order produce that is in season and actively discouraging the use of fuel-costly air-freighted items.

Doing the right thing to help protect the environment has always been essential for Country Fare and our new depot is testament to that

Sustainability has always been a priority for Country Fare. We are committed to limiting the negative effect of all our operations on the environment and this is what led to us building our own depot with sustainability at its core. We celebrated 20 years of being in business in 2024 and the opening of the site happily coincided with that.

Our biggest success has been the installation of the solar panels, which at 325kw is one of the largest arrays in the south of England. With the energy produced at the depot, we can return to the grid twice the amount of electricity than we imported.

The carbon-neutral depot's other eco-friendly features include energy-efficient chillers and freezers – we have a state-of-the-art mezzanine floor for chilled food storage, which significantly increased our storage space without needing to expand our footprint – LED lighting, heat pumps and charging stations for electric cars, ebikes and scooters, and it's insulated to the highest standards too. The site was awarded the highest possible energy rating of -12 A+.

Though it is difficult to measure the exact cost savings so far as we have yet to experience a full winter, the move to the depot meant replacing older equipment with new, more efficient equipment which, when combined with the solar panels, resulted in a 40% reduction in our electric costs last summer compared to the previous summer at our former site.

SEASONALITY

EATING by the seasons

Filling your menus with an abundance of seasonal produce will ensure your food is as fresh and tasty as can be, while supporting the environment too

DECEMBER – FEBRUARY

Turn heads by adding colour to your dishes during the darker months. Beetroot soup makes an attractive, tasty and nutritional addition to menus, while red cabbage is the perfect side to a mouth-watering roast dinner.

- Jerusalem artichoke • Cabbage
- Cauliflower • Brussels sprouts • Celeriac
- Fennel • Kale • Leeks • Parsnips • Potatoes

As the sun starts to set on the year, the lighter produce of spring and summer is replaced by cosy, filling dishes such as butternut squash risotto and roasted carrot soup.

- Plums • Quince • Apples • Blackberries
- Damsons • Elderberries • Sloes • Beetroot
- Carrot • Celeriac • Cobnuts • Fennel • Field mushrooms • Leeks • Lettuce • Marrow • Potatoes

ALLERGENS

What you need to know

Food law* requires that all UK food businesses provide essential allergy information on prepacked and non-prepacked food and drink that contain any of the 14 known allergens and they need to communicate these to customers

GLUTEN

Gluten is the general name for the proteins found in wheat, rye, barley, oats and triticale, a cross between wheat and rye. Gluten is most often associated with wheat and wheat-containing foods that are abundant in our food supply.

EGGS

Eggs are one of the most common allergy-causing foods for children. Egg allergy symptoms usually occur a few minutes to a few hours after eating eggs or foods containing eggs, such as mayonnaise, pasta, glazes, mousses, sauces, pastries, quiche and meat products.

FISH

The most popular varieties of fish eaten in the UK include cod, plaice, haddock, herring, trout, salmon and tuna. There are many other varieties and all are capable of triggering allergic reactions.

Fish can also be found in fish sauces, salted dressings, stock cubes, Worcestershire sauce, relishes and pizzas.

TREE NUTS

Nut allergy is a hypersensitivity to dietary substances from tree nuts causing an overreaction of the immune system, which may lead to severe physical symptoms. This tends to be a lifelong allergy. Cashews, almonds, walnuts, hazelnuts, brazil nuts and pecans are examples of nuts that grow on trees.

COW'S MILK

Symptoms of cow's milk allergy occur within seconds or minutes of contact. In its most extreme form, this allergy can result in anaphylaxis. Cow's milk is also found in butter, cheese, cream, milk powders, yogurt, powdered soups, glazes and sauces.

CELERY

Those suffering from this allergy should avoid celery stalks, leaves, seeds, celery salt, salads, some meat products, soups and stock cubes. There is the possibility that they could be allergic to celeriac.

SULPHUR DIOXIDE (SULPHITES)

The term 'sulphites' is a general term for a group of chemicals including sulphur dioxide and sodium or potassium metabisulphite. These are preservatives added to food and drinks to extend shelf life and can be found in dried fruit, meat products, soft drinks, tinned coconut milk, wine and beer.

SOYBEANS

Soya is a food derived from the soya bean, which is a legume, and is found in edamame beans, miso paste and textured soya protein/tofu. It can also be found in desserts, ice cream, meat products, sauces and vegetarian products.

SESAME

Sesame allergies are lesser known than peanut allergies, but the reactions can be just as serious. Sesame can be found in a number of food products, including bread, breadsticks, houmous, sesame oil and tahini paste.

MUSTARD

Recognised as quite rare in the UK, mustard allergy is still a known allergy for you to be aware of. Liquid mustard, mustard powder and mustard seeds fall into this category. Mustard can be found in curries, breads, marinades, meat products, salad dressings, sauces and soups.

*legislation.gov.uk/eur/2011/1169/contents; "All allergen information was correct at time of going to print and Country Fare cannot be responsible for any inaccuracies or omissions in the information. Country Fare recommends that the product label is read carefully before using the products"

CRUSTACEANS

Crustaceans are invertebrates, which means they have no backbone, and have soft, segmented bodies and jointed legs. People who react to one type of shellfish are likely to react to other types. There is also a high risk of cross-contamination among different types of shellfish via fish counters or fish markets. Shellfish includes crab, lobster, prawns and scampi. A key ingredient to look out for is shrimp paste.

MOLLUSCS

Like crustaceans, molluscs are invertebrates too. Many types have hard shells for protection and those that open and close are called bivalve molluscs. Molluscs include oysters, scallops, mussels, clams, snails, octopus and squid. They are often found in oyster sauce or as an ingredient in fish stews.

LUPIN

The lupin is well-known as a popular garden flower, but the seeds from some varieties are crushed to make lupin flour. This can be used in baked goods such as pastries, pies, pancakes, bread and pasta.

PEANUTS

Peanuts are part of the legume family and those with an allergy to peanuts increase the likelihood of an allergy to sesame and lupin. Peanut can be found in groundnut oil, peanut flour, satay sauce, curries and biscuits.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

- You can no longer state that all foods 'could' contain allergens.
- You can no longer state that you don't know if an allergen is present.
- Verbal statements have to be backed up in writing if requested.
- Allergen ingredient information must be recorded on product specification sheets.
- Allergen information must be kept up to date.
- Consider the impact if you change recipes regarding allergen information.

NATASHA'S LAW

Under Natasha's Law, you must list all the ingredients on individual packaging of products that are considered prepacked for direct sale.

FRESH BAKERY

A rustic still life featuring a wooden cutting board with sliced bread, a loaf of bread, and wheat stalks on a wooden surface with a linen cloth. The bread is sliced into thin, even pieces, and the loaf is whole. The wheat stalks are golden and have long, feathery awns. The background is a dark wooden surface with a light-colored linen cloth draped over it.

Slice of joy

Pillowy soft bread is the foundation of many of life's simple and comforting pleasures, and we have all bases covered, plus scones and buns for a treat with an afternoon cup of tea

BRITISH CHARCUTERIE

DORSET

Established in 2014 by James Smart, The Real Cure are pioneers of the British charcuterie movement. Our bespoke processes have been refined over many years, enabling us to create consistently outstanding British charcuterie.

Our salami, chorizo and air dried hams are made using traditional artisan processes of smoking, fermenting, curing and air drying. Our drying chambers contain a uniquely curated blend of natural moulds which add unrivaled depth of flavour during the ageing process.

We ensure everything we use is responsibly sourced, which means wild deer and free range pork as well as locally sourced ingredients and suppliers where possible – such as local Dorset cider and cheese.

We are delighted to supply Country Fare with our range.

Salted Caramel & Chocolate pot

Our rich and smooth Chocolate and Salted Caramel Pots make it so easy to create a luxurious dessert every time. Simply heat, chill and serve. They're not just easy to make, you can also make it your own - customise by adding inclusions like fruit and alcohol.

Nacho Cheese

Our mildly-spiced Nacho Cheese Sauce is a versatile sauce that's ideal for adding a little heat to savoury dishes and snacks. Made with real cheddar, its mildly spiced tang is just as at home on nachos, dirty fries and hotdogs as it is in more unexpected dishes like waffles, or as a creamy sauce base for chicken and pasta.

Southern Style Gravy

Our ready to use southern inspired chicken gravy is delicious when served as a dip for chicken and chips, drizzled over a burger or pizza, or as a sauce for classic country style chicken and grits. This simply clever sauce delivers consistent results every time, requiring minimum skillset.

Know your... Nuts

There's more to nuts than meets the eye. They're a rich source of proteins, vitamins and minerals, and add crunch, flavour and texture to many dishes

CASHEWS

Mild and creamy cashews are lower in fat than most nuts and are rich in iron and zinc. They add depth and nutty flavour to sweet and savoury fare, and are particularly good in Indian and Asian recipes.

BRAZIL NUTS

Brazil nuts have a smooth, buttery texture and are most often enjoyed raw or blanched. They're nutritious and energy-dense, and are the richest food source of selenium, which can be good for brain and heart health.

HAZELNUTS

A favourite in baking and desserts because they taste so rich, sweet-tasting hazelnuts are the perfect partner to chocolate. Ideal as a crunchy salad topping or in a homemade nut butter, hazelnuts shine in chocolate cakes and biscuits.

PISTACHIOS

A true superfood – for their good fats and being high in protein and fibre – capitalise on these sweet, earthy nuts in cooking.

ALMONDS

With their mildly sweet taste, vitamin- and mineral-rich almonds are a kitchen staple. Roasted and chopped, they're great in a stir-fry, or sprinkled over desserts and vegetable side dishes.

PECANS

Equally at home in sweet and savoury dishes, pecans are often interchangeable with walnuts. Best known in pecan pie, bake them in muffins and cakes to appreciate their warm, mellow flavour.

MACADAMIA NUTS

Considered a delicacy, macadamias are perfect for special-occasion dishes. They're high in fat (making them ideal in plant-based dairy alternatives) with a taste similar to hazelnuts, but their texture is smoother and richer. Macadamias take a starring role alongside white chocolate.

PEANUTS

Peanuts are a highly versatile storecupboard staple. Inexpensive and high in protein, they have a wide variety of uses in cooking. Create your own peanut butter and use it as a rub for meat, in dips and sauces, and for baking sweet treats.

WALNUTS

Quirky walnuts offer texture and crunch, and are a versatile addition to all sorts of meals. They're a favourite for baking as they tend to retain their crunch. Try them in cakes, breads, chutneys, pestos and, of course, salads.

Know your... Baking ingredients

Baking calls for so many different ingredients, but here the more unusual are explained

COCOA NIBS

Nibs are chopped cacao beans that have been fermented, dried and roasted. Crunchy with an intense chocolatey taste, but not sweet, nibs work well in bakes and mousses, and savoury dishes too, such as a simple smoky pesto.

YEAST

Yeast has been used in cooking for centuries and is the essential ingredient for bread-making. There are three main types for commercial use: active dry, instant and fresh, all of which work to leaven dough. The difference comes in their properties and flavour. Active dry yeast is the most commonly used – best for recipes that need a double rise and longer proofing time – and needs to be dissolved in water or milk.

CALLETS

No, callets are not the same as chocolate chips! They're larger, shaped like a flat button and contain slightly more cocoa butter so they melt when baked (chips maintain their shape and do not melt as much). Callets make dosing, melting and tempering chocolate easier for chefs, and are used to make molded or enrobed chocolates or added to cake mixtures for baking.

SPELT FLOUR

Liven up your cooking with spelt flour. It's a type of wholewheat flour made from the entire grain. Spelt (an ancient grain) is the closest alternative to all-purpose white flour, but it adds much more flavour and performs consistently well.

MASA HARINA FLOUR

This is the flour that's essential in creating Mexican-style food, including corn tortillas (it's what gives them their unique flavour), empanadas, gorditas and tamales. Masa harina literally translates to dough flour and is made from dried corn kernels.

XANTHAN GUM

When you want to bind, thicken and stabilise foods, reach for xanthan gum. It improves the rise in gluten-free baking and is commonly used in salad dressings and sauces to stop ingredients separating. It's a flavourless powder.
